Dear Union Friends,

Recently, a friend relayed this story: She received a package in the mail from her sister. It wasn't her birthday, was months before the holidays. My friend had been having a particularly trying week at work, and her sister's surprise gift of a sweet smelling candle, some soothing lotion, and a couple of snapshots from their teen years were a balm for her aching spirit.

She texted her sister a heartfelt message, "Thank you for your thoughtful package. In the midst of a dark week, you were a ray of sunshine!"

Her sister responded, "Oh, it was just some stuff I'd been meaning to get to you for a while."

My friend says that the joy and comfort that she had felt about being remembered and supported dissipated with her sister's response. The giver, by diminishing the importance of the gift, diminished the receiver's joy.

To be fair, my guess is that the sister who sent the gift was trying to be modest. "It was no big deal." She didn't want to call attention to herself. She didn't send the gift for the purpose of praise or thanks. The difficulty is that our mothers were right all those years ago – it IS the intention that counts. When we deflect and diminish a thank you or a compliment we are in turn diminishing the intention.

Think about it. Have you ever received a bouquet of dandelions from a child? The sheer glee on the child's face is the true gift. Their intention is the true beauty.

So, too, in our social conventions of offering thanks and compliments. One of the wisdom figures of my seminary days was Dr. Judy Logue who wrote extensively on the dynamics of forgiveness and reconciliation. A grande dame from Baton Rouge, Judy was all poise and class. One day she pulled me aside. She had just complimented me about my work on a particularly involved assignment, and I had deflected out of modesty. "Let me tell you a secret," she said, "The kindest response to a compliment is 'Thank you!' and the classiest response to gratitude is 'You're welcome!'"

As we enter in to the season of Thanksgiving, I encourage you to be mindful of both sides of the equation – to be gracious both in the offering of

How the Bible Came to Be November 19

Scholarship has shown that the Bible is the product of many minds and took over 1,000 years to come into its present form. How did this whole process occur? Who composed the texts? Who decided which of the many religious writings "made the cut" and got into our Bible? In short, how did we get the Christian canon?

LEADER — Julie Harder

Was Mary a Virgin?
December 3

"Round yon Virgin Mother (and child) ...," we sing every Christmas. Did you ever wonder why, when, and how the tradition of the virgin conception arose? Did all early Christian believers and authors of the New Testament subscribe to this tradition? [Spoiler alert: No.] Is there scriptural evidence that Mary was a virgin for life (as some churches teach)? What has the Church's exaltation of virginity as the most holy way to be meant for women's lives in the past 2,000 years?

Why Does Christmas Matter?
December 10

Christmas is so significant for many of us, but this is often based on inconsistent reasons. We'll discuss what many of those dominant reasons are and what holds true for us.

Sign Up to be an Advent Prayer Partner
Add Hope and Peace to your holiday to-do list.

In Advent, we steep ourselves in waiting, hope, and the interplay between light and darkness as we prepare for the coming of Christ. Amidst the busyness of the season, we'd like to encourage you to use it as an opportunity to enrich your practices of risk taking friendship and passionate prayer.

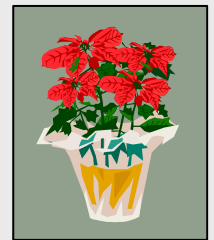

You can sign up to be an Advent Prayer Partner by filling out the form below and putting it in the collection plate or returning it to the church office by November 26. Later that week, you will be emailed a name of someone to pray for and their prayer requests. Your commitment is to lift up your secret Advent Prayer Partner each day in your prayers. Additionally, each week we will send an Advent-themed prayer technique. Our project will wrap up with you sending your prayer partner a note the last week of Advent, revealing your identity and sharing what you've been praying for them.

Union Congregational United Church of Christ on October 29.

Mike Ratachic

WI 543

Mike's Cell: ()

Mike was born and raised in Green Bay as an only child to Dick and Kathy Ratachic. He has been employed at Brown County Human Services since the age of 16 and is currently working as a case manager in the county's outpatient psychiatric hospital.

Mike is an avid drum and bugle corps lover and runner who enjoys football and roller derby. He was baptized and received his first Communion through the Catholic church. After age eight he only attended church occasionally and mainly did so to accompany his grandmother. He has since found his faith again after having come to Union Church.

Mike was drawn to Union because of its open and affirming stance and because of the church's support of the homeless and mentally ill. Union's activism in social justice and prison reform is admirable. Mike is honored to become a member of the church and is anxious to give back to his community.

Thanksgiving Dinner at Veterans Manor

For many of us, the holidays wouldn't be complete without the food. You know . . . Grandma's famous cranberry relish, homemade pumpkin pie, green bean casserole and . . . you fill in the rest.

The same is true for folks living at the Green Bay Veterans Manor, and this year Union has a wonderful opportunity to provide a meal for the approximately 40 veterans living here in Green Bay. If you would like to help with this project, we will need people to provide items for the meal and people who would like to go to the Veterans Manor to serve the meal at noon on Thanksgiving Day (November 23) and visit with residents. In addition, we will need a few folks to be at church on Wednesday afternoon/evening and Thursday morning before 10 a.m. to receive and prep food items.

If you are interested in signing up to make an item or give of your time or treasure this Thanksgiving, please contact the church office, sign up at Union Central or contact:

If you will be out of town or otherwise engaged over the Thanksgiving holiday, cash donations to support the meal and make the day memorable are also welcome.
